10PM Weather Forecast

Monday, August 2, 2021

5 Day Forecast Discussion: Quiet conditions are favored until Friday into next weekend where chances begin to pick up. Plenty of sunshine is expected for much of the week ahead with temperatures in the upper 70s to lower 80s the next few days. Temperatures start to increase Thursday into weekend as highs return to the mid-upper 80s. Lower humidity values are expected as well for much of the first half of the week ahead before it starts to pick up this weekend allowing for increasing heat index values. We added our next scattered storm chance on Friday, which likely continues into next weekend.

Monday, August 2, 2021

Long Range Forecast Discussion & Scenarios: The next couple of days will feature lower humidity and cooler temps compared to the early August normal, overall dry as well with little weather concern. Looking ahead to later this week, beginning Thursday the heat returns along with the humidity so the heat indices will be elevated into the mid-to-upper 90s. Scattered storms in hit or miss summer-time fashion will be possible especially starting next Friday into the weekend. It's worth noting that generally the most likely totals have backed off for this weekend. This could represent the general scattered nature of the storm risks with more missing out vs. getting hit. The high-end to extreme totals would represent the risk if we get under a heavier cell this weekend.
