2PM Synopsis: Radar is still quiet across central IN early this afternoon with nothing threatening approaching the area. We think isolated rain chances (10-20%) are possible after 2-3 PM this afternoon, extending into the evening hours. A strike of lightning can't be ruled out in this period nearby. It definitely should be noted that most of the remainder of the day today will end up "dry" outside of these spotty rainfall chances later today to tonight. Otherwise, winds are on the lighter side today with high temps around 80F expected.

Hazardous Weather Alerts: NONE

2PM Weather Forecast

Monday, August 16, 2021

Long Range Forecast Discussion & Scenarios: Tomorrow, a few isolated showers will be possible again, but by no means will be a washout; several drier hour-stretches are likely throughout each day. Tuesday and Wednesday are likely the same where there will be periods of hit and miss rounds of light to moderate precipitation and a few lightning strikes cannot be ruled out. Thursday/Friday right now hold the lowest potential regarding precipitation chances right now, before additional scattered chances into the upcoming weekend. Currently, the threat for severe weather appears low. Temps the first half of the week will hover in the low-to-mid 80s, but late week (~Wed and beyond) the potential for "feels like" temps to return to the upper 90s / low 90s look increasingly likely.*
