6AM Synopsis: We continue to keep an eye on isolated chances for showers this afternoon from roughly 12 PM – 6 PM. Areal coverage is still anticipated to be around ~20% as a reinforcing cold front moves across central Indiana. The presence of some instability will allow for a small potential for lightning as well. However, the best potential/ coverage is anticipated to be NE of the Indy Metro area with the vast majority of the day on the drier side. Outside of these chances, expect partly cloudy conditions with some haze overhead and high temperatures approaching 80 F. Winds pick up into the afternoon as well as winds shift more out of the north, sustained around 8 – 13 MPH. Gust up to 20 MPH will be possible.

5 Day Forecast Discussion: Outside of the minor chances today, quiet conditions are favored until Friday into next weekend where chances begin to pick up again. Plenty of sunshine is expected for much of the week ahead with temperature to begin the week in the upper 70's to lower 80's F. Temperatures start to increase Thursday into the weekend as highs return to the mid to upper 80's F. Low humidity values are expected as well for much of the week ahead. Humidity starts to pick up this weekend, allowing for Heat Index values to be on the increase as well. Winds are anticipated to be quite light overall next week.

Sunday, August 1, 2021

Long Range Forecast Discussion & Scenarios: The next 3-4 days will feature lower humidity and cooler temps compared to the early August normal, overall dry as well with little weather concern. As mentioned in the slides above, we are watching for an isolated ~20% chance of precipitation this afternoon along a cold front, but favoring mostly dry conditions for most of the day. As seen in the outcomes for today, if one of these isolated cells does work overhead we would expect intensity & totals to be light. Looking ahead to next week in the 5-10 day period, beginning Thursday the heat returns along with the humidity so the heat indices will be elevated into the mid-to-upper 90s. Scattered storms in hit or miss summer-time fashion will be possible especially starting next Friday into the weekend.
