5-Day Snow Map

NEXT 5 DAYS: IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES:

Precipitation:

- ✓ WED: Low confidence exists at this time due to the light nature of the wave, but would need to watch for snow showers to enter in the PM towards 9-10 PM
- ✓ THU-FRI: Snow showers would likely exit early Thu AM near 6 AM CT. Accumulation during the overnight will be light at around 0.25". Would need to watch next system to enter late THU PM through early afternoon Friday. Favored snow accumulation potentially at 2 -4 " out of the wave and for now application handling totals okay. Risk would be for totals to trend lower
- ✓ SAT: AM snow flurries and snow showers possible, with partly cloudy skies favored in the PM.
- ✓ SUN: Anticipating dry conditions as high pressure builds in

Temperatures:

- ✓ Unseasonably cold air will continue over the next 5 days. Temperatures will begin a warming trend starting on Sunday
- ✓ Coldest arctic air lingers today and into Wednesday AM

Wind/Clouds:

- ✓ Favoring clear to mostly clear skies Wed AM with increasing cloud cover post sunrise into the early PM. Skies will become broken to cloudy by sunset
- ✓ From THU AM - SAT skies will remain mostly cloudy with waves of snow showers
- ✓ Clearing will begin again starting towards SAT PM as high pressure works in behind waves of snow showers and into Sunday.
