Rainfall totals Next 7 Days

NEXT 5 DAYS: IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES:

Precipitation:

- ✓ FRI: Low end chance for a brief passing shower/ drizzle near 2 PM - 7 PM. Most of the day will be dry and moisture totals will be very minimal.
- ✓ SAT: Dry conditions continue with high pressure
- ✓ SUN: Most of the day Sunday should be dry. A very low-end chance exists in the evening towards midnight. Better chances should be to the NW.
- ✓ MON: Monday offers up the best potential the next few days for rain/ storms moving into the area, especially the PM hours. Heavy rain cannot be ruled out with this activity.
- ✓ TUE: The rain mentioned on MON will likely be continuing into TUE AM. How this front progresses into TUE PM and WED is low confidence with various model solutions in play. There is a risk that precipitation chances can clear into WED/ THU (low confidence)

Temperatures:

- ✓ An overall mild pattern is in store with temperatures spiking up ahead of a front SUN/ MON with temperatures into the 60's F. Behind the front, temperatures will drop back down, but nothing overly significant.

Wind/Clouds:

- ✓ Plenty of sunshine the next few days (although some clouds to contend with FRI - still think there is plenty of sun). Next chance for more cloud cover likely comes into MON/ TUE with the next system.
- ✓ SUN/ MON will also feature days that will be gustier in general with gusts near 30 MPH possible.
