Rainfall Totals Through MON AM

NEXT 5 DAYS: IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES:

- ✓ FRI: Rain/ Storm chances will be possible throughout the day on FRI with these chances beginning just after midnight.
- ✓ SAT: Chances will be dependent on exact track/ speed of a low-pressure system into the weekend. SAT runs the risk of trending dry as the system on Friday progresses east. At this time however rain is favored with a risk of back side flurries.
- ✓ SUN: Models are trying to pick up on the risk for a few back side flurries very early Sunday AM behind the main low pressure system, however favoring the day to be dry outside of that.
- ✓ MON: Anticipating dry conditions Monday.
- ✓ TUE: Anticipating dry conditions Tuesday.

Temperatures:

- ✓ Temperatures will remain in the 30s to the low 40s F throughout the end of the week and weekend. Moving into Monday / Tuesday, temperatures will begin to increase into the low 50s F.

Wind/Clouds:

- ✓ Expecting the skies to remain overcast through the end of the week and weekend until front completely moves out. Then, clear skies will make their appearance for the weekend and into the start of the week.
- ✓ Watching FRI/ SAT for the potential for stronger wind gusts near 30 MPH due to the front. Low confidence in this at this distance and will depend on the exact track/ intensity of a low-pressure system.
