NEXT 5 DAYS: IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES:

- ✓ WED: Aside from exiting light shower chances by 5 AM, only slight rain chances remain for the afternoon. Likely this day is dry after 5 AM.
- ✓ THU: Warm front from the SW can offer showers and storms in the very early AM. Would need to nail timing down, but the late AM - Mid PM can be dry
- ✓ FRI: Timing needs fine tuned again, but there can be rain chances in the AM with a cold front. The PM (beyond 10 AM as earlier risk) would look dry
- ✓ SAT: Need to watch the timing of another front. AM would look dry with timing coming near the late PM. Saturday can be dry as well with a better chance for rain early SUN AM.
- ✓ SUN: Another day with low end isolated rain chances, with generally a dry day (rain potential very low-end)

Temperatures:

- ✓ Low 70s F for the next few days with the warmest day of the week on Thu. Temperatures remain steady across the 10-day period at low 70s/upper 60s
- ✓ AM low temps quite mild in the 50s

Clouds:

- ✓ With the numerous cold fronts working through, timing wise, the AM hours in the coming days would cyclically look cloudier with clearing the late AM. Peaks of sunshine can occur in the PM with scattered rain chances
- ✓ THU: would be the only day that can be consistently mostly cloudy over the short term

Winds:

- ✓ WED: Generally lighter winds near 20 - 25 mph. Cold front in AM with localized gust to 35 mph possible
- ✓ THU: A few gusts of 25-35 mph possible mainly across THU PM with storms
- ✓ FRI/SAT/SUN: Winds leaning on the lighter side with gusts of 15 -25 mph
