8:00 AM CT Weather Forecast

Hour by Hour Forecast:

Current Weather Alerts:

All Clear

Temperatures:

- ✓ High temperatures will reach the upper 50's / low 60s F today.
- ✓ Lows tomorrow AM will be in the upper 40s F / near 50 F.

Wind/Clouds:

- ✓ Clouds are expected to remain overcast until noon, then winds will slightly break up, allowing for peeks of sunshine. Skies will clear up around 7 PM and for the rest of the PM.
- ✓ Variable winds are beginning to shift and will be out of the N by 9 AM-CT at 10-15 MPH. By ~ 12 PM, winds will have shifted out of the NNE gradually turning from the ENE at 5 - 10 MPH, then to 2 - 7 MPH by 7 PM CT. Gusts may reach 18-20 MPH at times.

FORECAST NOTES

Today's Precipitation Chances:

Scattered showers and storms have now pushed E. of the Chicago area, keeping the city dry for the rest of the day. A couple isolated showers may develop just south of Chicago around 10 AM, however favoring this risk to remain south and brief.

Rain Totals:

Not anticipating any additional rainfall today as activity has pushed east.

Dew/Frost:

Dew forming on surfaces can be expected Saturday AM.

Rainfall Totals The Next 7 Days

NEXT 5 DAYS: IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES:

- ✓ SAT: Much of Saturday is expected to be dry. Current thinking is around 6 PM to midnight will feature rain showers with rainfall amounts around 0.1" - 0.4". Timing will need to be fine tuned.
- ✓ SUN: Sunday and on is where confidence starts to drop off. Current thinking is that Sunday is dry with rain staying to the south. Some low-end chances will be present later in the day if more northerly data/northerly trends are realized.
- ✓ MON/TUE: A few different waves will need to be watched for in this timeframe for scattered showers/ storms. Current thinking is that much of the day Monday can be dry except for the AM hours. Will also need to watch MON night into TUE AM for another wave of rain/ storms to roll through. Timing will need to be refined.
- ✓ WED: Anticipating scattered showers and storms to be around throughout the AM Wednesday/early PM, clearing up then for the late evening.

Temperatures:

- ✓ Temperatures will stay mild through the weekend, but a boost in temperatures mid next week will be possible as well an increase in humidity.

Clouds:

- ✓ There certainly can be some peaks of sun upcoming into late this weekend into next week. Best chances for more sun will be SAT, MON PM, and TUE. There likely will be several periods of enhanced clouds into next week.

Winds:

- ✓ Nothing extreme is noted on the winds over the next few days. We will need to watch TUE/ WED for gusts to approach 30 MPH.
