HOUR BY HOUR FORECAST:

Hazardous Weather Alerts:

All Clear

Current Radar: 7:20 AM

IMPORTANT FORECAST NOTES

- ✓ Scattered showers and storms are favored after 1 PM today but are most likely around the 3 – 7 PM timeframe during the day, and then after 10 PM in the overnight. Heavy downpours, wind gusts of up to 50 MPH, and lightning are possible.
- ✓ Though the nature of these scattered storms are hit/miss, if caught under a heavy downpour, over a half inch of rain is possible.
- ✓ Temperatures peak in the mid to high 80s in the early afternoon with heat indices in the mid 90s, before dropping into the mid to low 70s overnight.
- ✓ Winds will be primarily out of the SW until 7 PM when the winds become variable. Wind speeds of 4 – 8 MPH with gusts up to 17 MPH are favored.
- ✓ Partly cloudy conditions are expected throughout the day. There may be some clearing between the scattered showers, but clear slots will be minimal after 3 PM.

Dew Forecast

Grounds will be wet TUE AM.
